

What is a container?

A container is essentially an isolated (from the rest of the OS) environment that's dedicated to an application or process. Containers will typically have their own allocated resources - ie memory and disk.

Common container virtualisation tools:

Docker

LXC/LXD

Podman

Revision #1

Created 2024-06-05 14:49:30 UTC by Daniel

Updated 2024-06-06 20:47:01 UTC by Daniel